[New Bedford, (Mass.)] The writer thanks the addressee for a Liberty Bell and regrets that she has been unable to contribute anything to the Anti-Slavery fair or to the Liberty Bell, owing to her husband's ill health. Hopes that the failure of George Thompson to visit New Bedford "was not owing to the want of an abiding place." Extends a standing invitation. "What pleasant accounts you give of your sisters at Paris..." Refers to a Miss Williams of Wilmington, N.C. who wrote that Washington, D.C. "is a dreary place" and that all southern cities are the same. Tells about the negroes in the southern cities. "Our poor colored in[illegible]bitants live in a constant state of alarm, many of the[illegible]king that they shall be looked up as soon as warm weathe[illegible]mes on." Mrs. Drinker died a(Edinburgh)a Expresses the earnest desire to help, and belief in the principle of immediate emancipation. Sorrowfully the Society feels compelled to withdraw from connection with the Boston Society because (1) "sentiments we conceive derogatory to the character of the Bible have been brought forward on the anti-slavery platform..." (2) because "the leading advocates of that society in America have given utterance to sentiments which...are infidel..." (3) because "by holding such fellowship we could not expect the blessing of God to rest upon our efforts." Includes also the minutes of the Committee of August 1, 1850, which contain the resolution that "no box of contributions be this year sent to the Boston Bazaar under the auspices of this committee."

To the Committee meeting Aug. 1, 1850 No.18
